Description du sas à vendre

Selling a majority stake in MEDVIDEO, a French company that specializes in designing video processing hardware for medical OEMs, system integrators, embedded systems, and professional users.

MEDVIDEO develops high-standard technologies with unique designs and proprietary FPGA-based solutions, allowing customization to specific client needs and providing a significant competitive edge in the market.

The Company's products are engineered to deliver (i) high-resolution video processing (4K/UHD/HD) with extremely low latency while also providing (ii) exceptional flexibility through FPGA-based designs.

MEDVIDEO has earned a strong reputation among leading international medical OEMs (of which medical robots, endoscopy, microscopy...), securing long-term partnerships by delivering high-quality, tailored solutions and reliable technical support. The technology is usable in other fields such as security, military & defense, broadcast...
